

Puttees

These are strips of wool cloth, which were worn with ankle boots by Canadian soldiers and other members of the British Empire forces during the First World War. Puttees were wrapped around a soldier's lower leg from the ankle up to below the knee.

Reproduction