THE ROOF (FREE ACCESS)

Native self-seeding grasses create the Museum's low-maintenance green roof, one of the largest of its kind in Canada. Seasonal access to the roof is outside the Museum.

MEMORIAL HALL (FREE ACCESS)

Memorial Hall is a place for quiet remembrance and reflection. The minimalist, dimly lit space, reached through a narrow, sloping corridor, holds a calm pool of water and a lone artifact: the headstone from the grave of Canada's Unknown Soldier.

The Canadian War Museum was designed by Raymond Moriyama of Moriyama & Teshima Architects, jointly with Alex Rankin of Griffiths Rankin Cook Architects. The innovative design is based on the theme of "regeneration," which brings to mind not only the impact of war on the land but also nature's ability to regenerate and recover from the devastation of human conflict. The Canadian War Museum opened on May 8, 2005.
